Transforming Work with Children, Youth, and Families: A Training for Congregational Leaders

This training is for educators and volunteers who work with, who want to positively impact, and who help nurture the spirits of children from birth thru high school. Re-envision congregational life and youth work from an asset-building perspective.

For over 50 years, Search Institute has conducted research, provided leadership, and created resources that assist individuals and communities in developing healthy and successful young people. Search Institute understands that healthy spiritual development and healthy faith communities are key elements to young people thriving. This Search Institute training is designed to help faith communities harness their asset-building potential.

Guest Speaker: Jim Conway, Search Institute Senior Trainer

Jim has experience providing training and consultation to youth-serving professionals and volunteers in organizations in the United States and abroad. He also served for over 15 years in leadership roles of various programs for children and adolescents.
